A Dramm Retirement

Jennifer Polanz

A quick shoutout to Theresa Krejcarek, who retired in May from the Dramm Corporation after 47 years at the company—wow! Theresa began her career at Dramm in May 1979 while still in high school when there were just 10 people at the company (there are more than 90 now).

"Theresa started in the office while also assisting in the factory whenever additional support was needed, demonstrating early on her strong work ethic and commitment to Dramm," the company wrote in an announcement. Over the years she was promoted to reach the office manager position, where she oversaw daily administrative operations, including accounts payable, accounts receivable and managing the office staff.

"I feel very blessed to have spent my career at The Dramm Corporation. The Dramm family is a wonderful family to work for and I truly enjoyed building relationships with customers, vendors, sales representatives and colleagues over the years," Theresa said. "I am forever grateful to Kurt Dramm for hiring me, for the many opportunities I was given, and to Hans Dramm and Heidi Dramm Becker for continuing the family business. After 47 years, you not only prepare mentally and physically, but emotionally as well. I retire with a humble and grateful heart and wish The Dramm Corporation continued success for many years to come."

Congratulations on your retirement, Theresa! GP
