Just Look at This Variegation

Ellen C. Wells

The folks at Nature's Way Farms in Homestead, Florida, are introducing a new, exotic and patent-pending alocasia variety from Nature's Way called Dawn, named for the company's founder Dawn Wilson. Dawn (the plant, not the person) is a rare item with marbled leaf patterns of light green and white tones. And they say each plant has a different pattern and ratio of color, so each plant is unique.

Wowza, look at that variegation! Your rare plant collectors are gonna love it! Orders are now only available via Amazon as availability is so limited, but once numbers are up, you'll be able to get a bunch. GP
